Toward Revolution

The upcoming centenary of the 1916 Rising offers us the opportunity to examine the myriad events that immediately preceded this revolutionary moment. The watershed events of 1916 were the culmination of both the short and long durée of Irish history. Moreover, seminal events such as the Easter Rising represent the starting point for many other historical phenomena. This year's Midwest Regional Meeting seeks individual and panel submissions that will discuss this theme or any other topic related to the field of Irish Studies. The conference will be held on the campus of the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse. Proposals must be submitted electronically by 1 July 2015 via this link on the ACIS website. Participants in the conference must be members of ACIS. Information regarding lodging, travel, plenaries, and social events will soon be made available.

About the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse

The University of Wisconsin-La Crosse, founded in 1909, is one of 13 four-year campuses in the University of Wisconsin System. It offers approximately 91 majors, minors and special programs for undergraduates in business, education, the sciences, the arts, health, recreation, physical education and liberal studies. Twenty-six graduate programs are available. More than 10,000 students attend classes on the compact, 128-acre campus. UW-L boasts a student to faculty ratio of 19:1 and an average class size of 28 students. Located on the banks of the scenic Mississippi River in western Wisconsin, the La Crosse metropolitan area with its 110,000 residents serves as a regional center for shopping, business and industry.
