Conference Call

There will be a conference on May 17-19, 1984, to celebrate the bi-centennial of the American Catholic Church. Those interested in participating in "The Past, Present and Future of the American Catholic Church" should contact Lawrence McCaffrey, History Dept., Loyola Univ., Chicago IL 60626.

SAMLA Condemns Stony Brook

The Irish Studies section of the South Atlantic MLA adopted a resolution at their last meeting which condemned the inattention given to the Yeats papers at SUNY Stony Brook. In a letter to Director of Libraries Jack Smith, Patrick McCarthy, chairperson of the Irish Studies section, expressed "our extreme concern with the deplorable state of what is beyond question the most important collection of documents in twentieth-century literature in the western hemisphere." The resolution was signed by thirty scholars, including, inter alia, George Mills Harper, Mary FitzGerald, Joel Myerson, Hershel Parker, Weldon Thornton, Richard Finneran, Dillon Johnston, and Walter and Connie Hood. In his reply to Prof. McCarthy, Mr. Smith wrote, "We expect to reach a decision no later than January 1, 1984." A call to Mr. Smith's office in late February elicited the information that Stony Brook had called in Edmund Berkeley, the respected archivist from the Univ. of Virginia. Mr. Smith said that Berkeley had made his report to the Stony Brook provost and that a decision would be forthcoming "within the next couple of weeks."

Award for "Consciousness"

According to a communique from its author, Robert O'Driscoll's book, The Celtic Consciousness (Braziller), has been chosen by the American Library Association as the Outstanding Academic Book of the Year in the U.S.

RE: ILS and Dues

Four dollars of each ACIS members' dues goes toward a subscription to the Irish Literary Supplement, a 20% discount from the regular price. The issues are mailed via bulk rate to the entire membership at one time. This entitles us to the cheapest postage rate. To mail single copies costs $.50 per item, about 300% higher than the bulk rate. The bulk mailing goes to those who have paid their dues on time, which enables us to get the mailing list in order. Members who pay their dues late should plan on contributing $.50 to the postage kitty if they want the current issue of the ILS. By the way, if you move without notifying the secretary of ACIS, your copies of ILS and the Newsletter will be returned. There is a $.25 per item charge by the post office for this service. Neither the ILS nor the Newsletter will be forwarded, no matter what you instruct the post office. We have the bills to prove it.

New Social Research Newsletter

At a conference held in Coleraine, Northern Ireland, in September 1983, which was attended by some 70 academics from Ireland, Britain and the U.S., it was agreed to form an Association for Social Research in Ireland (ASRI). Its aim is to improve the exchange of information among those engaged in research on Ireland in the areas of data and source material, conference news, research work of individuals and organizations, and miscellaneous information. Information will be exchanged via a newsletter which will appear twice yearly. The newsletter will be compiled by the Centre for the Study of Conflict (New University of Ulster, Coleraine, Northern Ireland BT52 1SA) with the assistance of several overseas correspondents. ACISer Joseph Thompson (PolySci, Villanova Univ.) will act for the U.S.

Major Bibliography Released

A Social Science Bibliography of Northern Ireland, 1945-1983, has been published by several scholars in Northern Ireland. Bill Rolston of Ulster Polytechnic, and Mike Tomlinson, Liam O'Dowd, Bob Miller, and Jim Smyth of Queens University, have pulled together nearly 6000 citations from local and international literature on Northern Ireland, including published and unpublished material, books, journal articles, government publications, political pamphlets, occasional papers, dissertations, conference papers, and other sources. There are 27 topic headings with full author, subject and geographical indexes. It sells for £13.95 in hardback, £6.95 paper. A full review will appear in the Fall ILS. Those wishing copies of the book should send checks to: University Bookshop, 91 University Road, Belfast BT7 1NL

Centenary Briefs

This year is the centenary of Irish tenor John McCormick. It is also the hundredth birthday of Robert Flaherty, the pioneer maker of film documentaries. His best known Irish film was Man of Aran, but he also made such classics as Nanook of the North, one of our favorites.

Other Briefs

James Allen of the Univ. of Hawaii at Hilo is looking for an exchange of houses with someone in the New York area, preferably on Long Island, for Spring 1985. He has an ocean-front condo with two large bedrooms, and is throwing in his car in the exchange . . . Kathleen Hoagland, who edited the very popular 1000 Years of Irish Poetry (1948), died on February 21 in Rutherford, New Jersey. She was 75 years old.

Correction

In the last issue, the paid advertisement for the Institute of Irish Studies was inadvertently titled "School of Irish Studies." The "Institute" is headed by Ms. Noelle Cleary; the "School" is headed by Mr. Sean White. There is no connection between the two.
